MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 19 1876

THE PRESIDENTIAL CONTEST

The nomination of Hayes and Wheeler is received by the Eastern press very favorably. The Times and Tribune, of New York both of them accustomed to criticise the doings of the Republican party with great freedom, speak in complimentary terms of the candidates, while the Herald, independent Democrat, and the World, Bourbon, have no such severe criticisms as usually are made upon Presidential nominees by journals of the opposing party

There is certainly a feeling of disappointment among the friends and supporters of the various candidates prominent in the convention, and especially with the friends of Mr. Blaine, whose gallant fight against the conspirators at Washington excited general admiration and universal sympathy; but it is doubtful whether his nomination would have been as well received by the influential papers. The Tribune alone, of all the great journals, stood by him in the fight with the conspirators, and it is hardly likely the others would have given him a handsome send-off after opposing his nomination. It is safe to assume that Hayes and Wheeler will poll the entire Republican vote, or, at least, that they will lose no considerable number on account of the divisions that have existed in the party. The Liberals, many of whom could never be brought to support Blaine, will have no fault to find with Hayes.

Hayes will receive no Democratic votes. Neither would Blaine Neither would any other Republican, except possibly Bristow, and he, in all probability, would not receive enough to make a difference in the result in any State in the Union.

The vote this fall will be a test vote. Hayes' nomination, though not greeted so enthusiastically as Blaine's would have been, will call out all the voting population on his side. The Democrats do not need to be called out—they come without waiting to be called by enthusiasm. They are naturally enthusiastic in the matter of voting There are no side tickets to divert the attention of citizens or divide votes. Peter Cooper was, we believe, renominated by the beggars' opera at Indianapolis, but that signifies nothing. He will not get any votes.

POLICE COMMISSIONER.

Every consideration of economy and good order in the city, urges the election of Mr. John R. Foster as Police Commissioner. He has served in that capacity for some time, and given good satisfaction to all, except those who wish to see the police department of the city government run as a political machine for carrying elections. Mr. Foster, though always a Republican, has assisted the other commissioners in keeping the police force in its proper place, as a police force, and in this has served the city well, though he may have offended some of the politicians. No fault has been found with him, unless it is a fault for him to oppose the using of the police force as a corps of party "workers" on election day.

We are not offering a word to disparage the partisan candidates as gentlemen. But we venture to assert they have just as much human nature in them as other good men have; and it is impossible for ordinary men not to accede in some measure, in their official conduct, to the views and purposes of the party which has chosen them. Elect either of the party candidates to-day, and it will be found ere long that the police is organized with relation to party success in subsequent elections, unless the other two commissioners should prevent it. Next year another commissioner is to be elected. Elect the party man this year, and thus establish a precedent which may be followed next year, and then there will be a partisan majority in the Board, and we shall have the old story of an expensive police, without efficiency except as drummers and strikers about the polling places. The only safety from this burdensome nuisance is to keep the Police Department entirely free from party control. It is a self-evident proposition that no political party seeks to control the police for legitimate and proper objects, for it is impossible to imagine any party service which the police force render without violating all their legitimate duties as a police force.

This is a very important matter to citizens of Portland. The commissioner to be chosen to-day will hold his office for three years. Put the police into the hands of a partisan commission and it will not be three years before the whole force will be demoralized and debauched till it will be no longer a police, and will be felt in the city only when the tax-payers are called upon to foot its enormous bills, and when it appears, under command of the "captains of the polls," to create disorders at elections.

The Turkish drama moves on space. From the fiendish oppression of a vast majority of the European subjects of the empire, with such cruelty as the besotted ignorance and religious bigotry could devise the play goes on through complications and difficulties with foreign powers, falsehood and misrepresentation in dealing with public questions, and the suicide of the monarch, to conspiracy, treason and assassination in the palace of the new Sultan. These are not the most pleasant scenes to contemplate, but they are quite in accordance with the fitness of things, and preserve the natural order and symmetry of the whole performance admirably. In order to the perfect harmony and appropriate denouement of the piece certain characters who have yet played no leading parts, should come to the foretront in the last act, and that hideous fraud upon civilization known as the Sick Man should be carried to a decent interment Upon such information as we possessed, and which he thought correct, the statement was made that Gov. Hayes was a Colonel in the army and only Brigadier General by brevet. a mistake. His military record is as He entered the service as Lieutenant the 23d Ohio Regiment in 1861. In Gen. Cox, Sept. 20, 1862, battle ntain, there occurs this refer- ority in the engagement I feat B Hayes commanding 2nd Ohio, was severely wounded in the arm whilst leading his regiment forward. He refused to leave the field for some time however, till weakness from loss of blood compelled him. On the 12th of October, 1864, Col. Hayes was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General.

The dispatches announce the resignation of Secretary Bristow, to take effect on the 20th instant. The reasons which induced Mr. Bristow to retire from the cabinet have not yet been received, further than the general statement that they were wholly of a private nature but it is well known that Mr. Bristow and the President have not agreed well together for some time past, and this may have disposed Mr. Bristow to give the President an opportunity to fill his place with a more agreeable person. No new Secretary has yet been nominated, but Mr. John C New, the present treasurer, has been suggested as the probable successor of Mr Bristow

We do not recollect now anything done by Mr. Noah Lambert to entitle him to be elected Councilman for the Third Ward, unless it be his giving $50 to the big $3,500 corruption fund raised to carry the city for the ring in 1875, when he had a contract on the postoffice building. If that is a sufficient qualification, Mr. Lambert should be unanimously elected.

Dr. Watkins declines the nomination of the Republicans for Councilman for the Second Ward. His note to the committee on the subject appears in another place in this paper His place has been filled by the city committee with the name of J. B Kellogg

THE PRESS ON THE NOMINATIONS.

NEW YORK EVENING POST.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Post editorially says, "The Republicans are to be congratulated on their good fortune, having narrowly escaped a fatal error, into which they were in danger of falling up to the last hour of the convention. They signalized that hour by an act which goes far to vindicate at once their political honesty and their partisan sagacity The Republican leaders will give Hayes a heartier and more united support than they would have given any man before the convention."

THE TIMES

Compares Hayes with Lincoln, and declares history does not repeat itself. After all, the struggle has been bitter, and a triumph has been won in spite of the gloom which a great though tarnished name had thrown over men of simple mind and honest impulses Hayes is a man of plain, unobtrusive manner, unimpeachably honest, possessed of keen intelligence, robust common sense. Wheeler is a man whose clear headed, far-seeing statesmanship is worthy of the noblest era of our history and highest standard of our public life. These two names are amply sufficient guarantees that the party has shaken off the influences which threatened to paralyze it, and will command the approval of the Independents and Liberals. With two such nominees the Republican party can listen to no such word as fail. Blaine gave another example of his manliness and warmth of heart by frankly pledging his support.

THE COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER

Calls the ticket of Hayes and Wheeler an admirable one Like the platform, it represents the very heart and spirit and splendid antecedents of the Republican party.

THE EXPRESS (DEMOCRATIC)

Says the nominations made at Cincinnati are admittedly respectable in character, composed of men of some experience in the civil service.

Speaking of the forthcoming St. Louis convention, the same paper says. The selection of a Western man and Governor by the Republicans may lead to the choice of a Governor and Democrat from the West, with a Vice President from the East.

THE WORLD

Says the nomination of Hayes is a collapse, not a compromise, and describes him as a colorless candidate upon a platform of platitudes, who shoulders all the administration sins. The writer grants Hayes respectable abilities and a good private character, but says he lacks Lincoln's genius or popularity.

THE HERALD.

It was a dramatic picture, a square fight in the convention. Ohio and Maine were the only States which stood by their colors unfalteringly. Blaine came out of the fight as much the leader as Henry Clay did in his palmiest days. So far as Blaine's defeat is concerned, we have only congratulations for the Republican party and the country. The ticket is a fair one. It means nothing but modernty. Hayes is a good man, with a fair, safe record. There are, we doubt not, 10,000 Republicans any one of whom would make as competent a President as Hayes. He has no such hold on thec ountry as Blaine or any of his opponents in the convention. Wheeler stands well, and the ticket will poll the party strength. It will represent the average common sense sober-minded cbes. When St Louis nominates we shall see Cincinnati's true value.

THE SUN

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Sun says of the nomination of Hayes that he is a candidate whose weakness and unimportance are his principal recommendations to the Republican party. His record is brief and slight. In Congress he was one of the obscurest members His name there, or elsewhere, has never been identified with any policy, or measure, or action of any kind. He is not the man to obliterate the transactions of Grantism. The Cincinnati convention had strong men like Morton and Conkling, a practical reformer in Bristow, a notorious jobber and trickster in Blaine; but it selected a man unknown to statesmanship, reform and party traditions. It took him as the only hope of avoiding the triumph of the great corruption at under whom the party would have been whirled to the ruin which awaits it in any event.

PHILADELPHIA TIMES.

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—In regard to the Cincinnati nominations McClure of the Times says: The worst elements of Republicanism will rely upon Hayes to be obedient to party interests, to shield the future Babcocks protect the future Kelloggs and espouse the cause of future Pinchbacks of the party, and who will say that confidence is not warranted? The better men of the organization, who have faith in all its simplicity, and little knowledge of "Simon's ways of power," will scan his blameless record and say that he has been faithful in a few things and will consent to make him a ruler over many St. Louis may make him a weak candidate by meeting the elevated demands which Cincinnati disregarded, but the people will not defeat Hayes merely to give the Democrats a victory. His defeat is possible and it should be made certain but to sit looking forward by the light of the past I can only guess and fear.

FORNEY'S PRESS.

General Hayes is a strong candidate He lacks Blaine's positiveness. He will not be a pillar of fire by night or a cloud by day, to lead us, but we believe he will be a trustworthy guide. He was a gallant soldier, an excellent Congressman, and has made a good governor His administration will be respectable, if not a brilliant one, and in its quietude and negative qualities, recall the days of Polk, Fillmore and Pierce. He is eminently a safe man.

THE SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) REPUBLICAN

Thus sums up the case: With Blaine the Republican party would have been broken and defeated at the very opening of the campaign, with Bristow it would have been triumphant, with Hayes it enters upon a doubtful struggle for existence, dependent upon the chances of the Democratic nomination and the popular humors of the campaign. We congratulate the Republican party that it has come out of its great moral conflict as well and so honorably. We deplore the result that it is not a more complete victory for reform Now for St. Louis. Hayes would beat Bill Allen or Hendricks easy and Hancock with difficulty. Tilden would make it a doubtful canvass, with chances in favor of the Democracy. But with Judge Davis and John Quincy Adams for Vice President, the country would be exposed to a revolution.

NEW HAVEN PALLADIUM.

Hayes is a man who has a habit of being elected. His nomination arouses no antagonisms in the party. He is sure to carry his own State in October, and he is widely popular throughout the West. It is fitting that a brave volunteer soldier, who is not without experience in civil life, should succeed a professional soldier whose dauntless courage and skill led our armies to victory and preserved the unity of the nation

THE HARTFORD COURANT.

The ticket, if not the best possible, is at least second, and deserves and will command the hearty and enthusiastic support of all who look forward with just apprehension to the possibility of the Democratic party, with its present leadership and tendencies coming into power.

THE INTER OCEAN.

In an editorial commenting on Hayes nomination at Cincinnati says the convention won a double victory for the country in nominating a ticket which will be heartily accepted and endorsed by Republicans and reformers in all parts of the country. The convention has, it asserts, earned the thanks of the American people for the courage and devotion which it brought to the election of a ticket entitled to the respect and confidence of the nation, and for the firmness with which it rejected the other. The nomination is the triumph of reform, the triumph of the popular demand for the purification of the public service and the restoration of responsibility and accountability in the administration of the government. Mr Hayes has all that pertains to the great principles and policies of reform, retrenchment and integrity of administration and is as acceptable as Bristow Less known to the world perhaps, he is widely known as a man with a clear head sound judgment, patriotic record, and above all, clean hands, a stranger to the lobby, and with no entangling business alliance with subsidy seekers and gamblers in national credit. For the nomination of a man so pure, publicly and privately, and at the same time so identified with the great reformatory policies which prevailing corruption has made so essential, the convention well deserves to receive the grateful thanks of the country

THE CHICAGO TIMES

Says The nomination of Rutherford B. Hayes for President by the Cincinnati convention is a surprise to the whole country, and a bitter disappointment to the party managers, whose combinations have thus been brought to naught The article speaks of him as a quiet nail rather obscure individual, who has failed to improve his opportunities to become distinguished His candidacy will create no such furor as would that of Blaine, the magnetic partisan leader Whether he can be beaten will depend on whether wisdom or folly shall prevail at St. Louis

THE INTER OCEAN.

After reviewing his political life and his great popularity in Ohio, his sterling worth and ability, declares that, Mr. Blaine excepted, Governor Hayes has as many elements of positive leadership as any man who came before the convention, and his name is more intimately associated with recent victory. No man could bring out the full strength of the party more than he will, on no man can the warm partisans of the other candidates unite so readily He is able and experienced—a man to be proud of and a candidate that will arouse all the enthusiasm and call out all the loyalty of the Republican masses.

The local press agree in the belief that the nomination of Wheeler for the second place on the ticket was the strongest and best that could be made.

THE SAN FRANCISCO CALL.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17. In commenting on the nominations at Cincinnati this morning the Call says We regard this as a strong ticket. The nomination of Hayes will consolidate the Republican party The country has heard less of him than of Blaine, Morton, Conkling or Bristow, but it has heard only good We do not know of a prominent man with a more impregnable reputation.

THE S. F. CHRONICLE.

The Chronicle remarks: The ticket is strong. One fact which will be more generally recognized than it now is, while the stress of the canvass begins to be felt, is that the Republicans can now enter upon the canvass carrying no weight and be free to wage aggressive warfare. Hayes is, in point of availability, the wisest choice that could have been made with the single exception of Bristow.

THE ALTA CALIFORNIAN.

The Alta comments as follows: In common with a vast majority of the Republicans of this city we feel a measure of disappointment at the defeat of Blaine as a candidate for the Presidency, but that effect will pass away the more they know of Hayes and his antecedents. Of all the candidates before the convention, next to Blaine, Gov. Hayes is the most popular. The general sentiment, so far as it has found expression, seems to be that Hayes is the second choice of almost every one, and his nomination will secure the united support of the party. The only sore-heads, if any, will be found among the Federal brigade. Wheeler's nomination gives general satisfaction.

THE WAY IT WAS DONE.

PORTLAND, June 17, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A short time prior to the hour appointed for the City Republican Convention to meet, and when it seemed likely that the delegates would conclude that the wisest course to pursue was the endorsement of the citizens nomination of Lownsdale for councilman of the third ward, and perhaps other like nominations for the city, one J. F. Caples, a resident and voter of the second ward, arrived and procuring the proxy of one of the third ward delegates, (P. Connell) and taking with him four of the seven delegates from said ward, retired alone to a room and with doors locked, proceeded forthwith to make, as it was termed, a straight nomination. They came out in a few moments and announced that they had nominated N. Lambert for councilman. In a few minutes, with said Caples' valuable aid, the nomination of W. Connell for police commissioner was made. From Caples' splendid management in these matters, one might be led to think that he has had something to do with rings at some period of his existence.

HOW FRONT STREET LOOKS

Not since the memorable fire of 1873 have our citizens experienced such a waters ordeal as the one through which we are now passing.
During the summer of 1871 the waters of the Columbia and Willamette rose to an unusual height and did considerable damage to prop erty both on the river. Besides seriously incon venienting the residents of the city, but the highest point reached during that season was not scarcely a foot more than the present stage of water for the past two weeks the oldest inhabitant whose recollections ought to be accepted with much confi dence as the criterion of high water this year. Some regarded these prognostica tions with concern while others considered them only as idle speculations. After all it seems that the oldest inhabitant has been correct in his conjectures. Since about Wed nesday of the past week the waters of the Snake and Columbia have steadily crawled up the banks at a rate calculated to awaken seri ous apprehensions as to results and at present writing, the outlook is anything but encour aging or comforting. Friday evening it became painfully apparent that Front street would have to succumb to the watery invasion and during Saturday the high waters were heard inside by owners of property along that thoroughfare, providing against the steady encroachments of the water. Some of the most prudent property owners became convinced that the street was bound to be inundated and commenced precaution by measur several days ago by casting dirt sand and stone to be thrown on the sidewalks and Nicolson pavement to hold them down. Those who were skeptical on the question of the threat ened submergence of the street had been negligent, lost no time during Saturday in providing against the damage which would inevitably follow. At present Front street from Washington down to D presents a most novel and grotesque appearance. For most of that distance the pavement is covered with dirt sand and rock ballast, to the depth of from 8 to 10 inches. The sidewalks are cov ered with every kind of merchandise which possesses weight and is insoluble in water. In front of the hardware stores kegs of nails placed on temporary scaffolding are to be seen lying in long rows together with grindstones chains, heavy cases filled with iron etc Heaps of pig iron piled in irregular order about can be seen along aside of kegs and barrels of white lead which thoughtful drug gists have placed on the pavement to hold it down. Inside is a pile of brick dumped down carelessly there is a heap of waste scrap iron there a lot of old condemned car wheels, together with pieces of damaged ma chinery pipes, jointings, stoves, cases of tin stone from the marble shops, barrels filled with coal earth and water sacks of salt on low platforms, and broken chains scattered about, all combining to form a scene of strange disor der. Everything that is heavy is made to contribute to the exigencies of the hour and no effort is spared to avoid the threatened damage. Along in front of most of the brick buildings strong pieces of timber have been placed at an angle one end resting against the sidewalks and pavement and the other firmly braced against brick and iron work. It is thought that these powerful braces together with the vast weight which has been uniform ly distributed along the street, will be suffi cient to hold everything floatable down under several feet of water. Yesterday the stillness of the Sabbath air was broken by the ringing of the carpenter's hammer crashing of saws and the rattle of wagons and dump carts hauling earth to various points about the inundated thoroughfare. By careful measurement the river lacks about fifteen inches of reaching the 62 mark and as the Columbia continues to rise, it is not improbable that that notch may be reached this season. From such a fate the average Portlander prays for deliv erance

DEATH BY STRYCHNINE.

A MAN SWALLOWS A QUANTITY OF THIS FATAL DRUG AND IS A CORPSE WITHIN A SHORT TIME.

Saturday evening between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock Mr C M Kincaid an attorney of this city who resides in East Portland was notified that one of his neighbors, a Mr John Mallory, had just swallowed a dose of strych nine, with suicidal intent and was in the ago nies of death. Mrs Mallory, wife of the un fortunate man, came running over in great alarm and informed Mr Kincaid that her hus band was dying. As quickly as possible Kin caid repaired to the house, and there found Mallory lying on a lounge in an unconscious condition. Very soon after, he appeared to suffer great internal misery and the pain was so acute that he was thrown into violent con vulsions. Presently he seemed to grow more comfortable and recognized those about him, and was also able to converse. Meantime Dr Raffety had been called to see the patient but nothing could be done to alleviate his suffer ings. In about three quarters of an hour from the time the poison was administered Mallory died during one of the terrible spasms. Cor oner Wetmore was notified of the case, and proceeding to the late residence of the deceased held an inquest over the body. From the tes timony educed during the inquest these facts were obtained. For some time Mallory has been afflicted with the rheumatism and has a sort of presentiment that he would be ren dered a cripple for life from the effects of the disease. This idea took possession of him—haunting him constantly—and led to a mor bid state of mind, under the influence of which he often threatened to destroy his life.
About a month ago he procured a phial of strychnine for the purpose, he said, of poison ing himself but his wife discovered the fatal drug in time and threw it away. He pro cured another bottle some two weeks before his death and told his wife that he fully pur posed taking his life with it. She obtained possession of the bottle and was going to de stroy it but Mallory told her if she did not give him back the bottle he would cut his throat with a razor. By means of this threat she was foolishly induced to yield to his re quest and returned the poison to him. Sat urday evening, after his wife had gone to bed Mallory swallowed about half the contents of the bottle, emptied the remainder out of the window and then threw the phial in the stove. Soon after he was seized with fearful pains and convulsions and in answer to an inquiries informed his wife what he had done Deceased was aged about 40 years. He leaves a wife and one child to mourn his sad and untimely end. He was in moderate circum stances owned a house and lot in East Port land, was not indebted to any one, and ap peared to be comfortably situated. There seems to be no earthly reason to assign for the rash deed, but an obstinate deliberate deter mination to destroy himself. The following is the verdict of the jury

We the jury empanelled by Coroner J A Wetmore to inquire into the cause of the death of the person whose body now lies before us do find that he came to his death by a dose of strychnine administered by his own hands in the evening of June 17th 1876 at his resi dence in Holladay's Addition to East Port land

DR. WATKINS DECLINES THE NOMINATION.

Dear Sir—I learning Saturday morning that I was mentioned as one of the probable nomi

WATER NOTE.

Water water water

Front street looks like a deserted fortification.

The Wallamet rose two feet Saturday night at Salem.

While the Astoria boat was on the way up the river Saturday the small house was met floating down on the strong current.

During Saturday about 12 feet of the O S N Co's large warehouse at Salem floated away.

Several families living in the lower end of the city have been compelled to abandon their houses and take higher grounds.

A portion of the railroad bridge, on the line of railroad between the upper and lower Cascades was carried away Saturday by the high water. The track on the portage is all under water.

The Astoria and Dalles boat will be compelled hereafter to receive and discharge their passengers at the Cascades. Pedestrians can scarcely get to and from the O S N Co's floating hotel.

The O S N Co have been compelled to run an order to temporarily suspend navigation on account of the flood. An effort however will be made to day to get through from the Dalles.

The Current House now has a fair show all over the first story to keep their guests from wending about. Several of the houses on Front street will have to follow the example if the water continues to rise.

The water now stands two feet on the first floor of the O S N Co's office at the Dalles. The telegraph office has been removed to the steamer Idaho until the flood subsides. A great portion of the railroad track at the Dalles is several feet under water.

The Dalles is pretty well under water at present. Saturday Mr Haywood's house was surrounded by water. West street was completely flooded and the store. Hunter's Exchange carrying on business was that street all the other merchants having been compelled to leave several days ago.

RIVER AND COAST IMPROVEMENTS.

The Shubrick is probably now at Astoria and will start down the coast early next week to inspect and supply the light stations at Capes Foulweather Blanco and Arago.

The survey of the bar at the mouth of the Columbia has progressed roundly considering the season of the year. Unless delayed by heavy weather the work will be completed within ten days.

During the coming week an examination will be made in a small boat of the river between Corvallis and Salem for the purpose of locating wing dams to be built on the bars during the present season.

The snag boat is now at the mouth of the Lewis, Lyon where there are a great number of snags and other obstructions. The boat is doing good work. It will require about three weeks to clear out the channel there and at the Palm Table below.

All the buoys on the bar at the mouth of the Columbia river, Shoalwater Bay and Puget Sound were taken up and replaced with new ones during the recent cruise of the tender Shubrick. Many of these were thickly coated with mussels seaweeds and barnacles.

Examination was made last week for the level and velocity at the Cascades, in connection with the proposed canal at that place. The water at the time was about nine feet below the high water mark of 1862. The surface velocity of the current at the Narrows, about two miles below the upper rapids—the proposed site of the canal—was 15½ miles per hour.

Col Wilson has just returned from a tour of the lighthouses north of the Columbia river. As a general thing, every station was found in very good condition the various light houses being clean, neat and well regulated. A new lamp was put up at Admiralty Head, the old one being about worn out. Capt Kempff the lighthouse inspector furnished all the stations with a full supply of oil, wicks etc, for running the lights one year. Capt Wilson officer of great energy and experience and performs his duty very thoroughly.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs Kehoe, the wife of Joseph Kehoe, a fireman on one of the O & C R R Co's passenger trains while out buggy riding was thrown—or rather leaped—from the vehicle and received fatal injuries, from which she shortly died. The circumstances attending the accident are as follows. Mr Kehoe accompanied by his wife and child started out to take a ride. They had driven some distance out into the country, and returning, to town were passing Jno Hy Cemeteries when the animals suddenly shied to one side. Mrs Kehoe in alarm grasped the lines and took them from his hands. This only caused the horses to accelerate their speed and become more unmanageable. One carriage wheel ran over a stump which gave such a violent lurch as to throw Mr Kehoe from his seat. Meantime he had obtained hold of the reins and when thrown to the ground still held them firmly. However the team pulled away from him and ran off. Mrs Kehoe perceiving her dangerous situation gathered her child in her arms and leaped to the ground. The child escaped without being hurt but the mother received fatal internal injuries from which she died in about an hour and a half. Drs Nottage and Strong were hastily summoned but reached never following after inquiring for a short time in an unconscious condition, the poor woman breathed her last. Mr Kehoe was fortunate enough to escape with slight injuries. The frightened team ran on for some distance and finally plunged off a bridge redoubt, the carriage to a complete wreck and badly injuring one of the horses.

THE COQUILLE MURDER

A gentleman from Coquille City furnishes the Douglas county Independent with the particulars of the murder of a man named Lewis by his half brother which have never before been published. The facts are these. The man who did the shooting has a daughter 18 years of age whose person he had repeatedly outraged. Her father's unnatural and beastly conduct was highly distasteful to the girl and so preying, to her mind. For protection he took her away from her home and placed her with some friends to look after. The father found the place of his daughters abiding and he compelled her to return home and again submit to his sinful embraces. The uncle of the girl's mother more enraged than ever by the conduct of the father in returning of it went to his brother and told him of it. He interfered he told him. The uncle therefore left with appointment to place for the girl to meet him when he would take her away from her father and brother who he said would trouble her more. The father heard of this also and after sending his son to a neighbor's to borrow a gun of the two went to look for the brother and found him ploughing in a field. Now he knew what was said by either party. Upon meeting each other they began shooting. Three shots were fired and a woman seen running over into the field and found the uncle lying in the furrow with the plow shot in the leg, in the arm and through the heart and the father and son leaving the scene of the murder as fast as possible. The dying uncle was carried over to the house and breathed his last a few minutes after his home was reached. The son was not seen till the next day and is now in jail at Coquille City while the murderer is at large in the woods armed with two pistols and a Spencer rifle and the community is afraid to follow him up close enough to secure his arrest. Such a man should be hunted down with blood hounds.

Quite a wonderful run of luck in the billiard tournament at Philadelphia is ascribed to the fact that the drinks Noble Whisky to strengthen and toning his nerves. Sold by H Hockstadter 34 Front street Portland.
